

PRESS RELEASE FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

June 13, 2016

By Sgt. Marisa Lindsay

Alaska National Guard
Release: 15-037

Alaska National Guardsmen are on-target during marksmanship challenge

JOINT BASE ELMENDORF-RICHARDSON, Alaska — More than 25 Soldiers and Airmen with the Alaska National Guard came together to compete The Adjutant General’s 2016 Match, hosted by the Alaska Army National Guard, held at the Joint Base Elmendorf-Richardson range complex, June 10-12.

The Alaska National Guard TAG Match is an annual event, which promotes marksmanship training amongst Airmen and Soldiers by providing a competitive opportunity to test their marksmanship skills and weapons systems in a battle-focused environment.

<Insert quote>

X four-man teams completed advanced marksmanship tasks, to include XXXX

<Insert quote>

For many competitors, this was their first time or multiple time participating in the TAG Match competition.

<Insert quote from first-time participant or seasoned participant

At the conclusion of the mentally and physically-demanding event, the competitors were recognized during an award’s ceremony held at the Alaska National Guard armory on Camp Denali, Joint Base Elmendorf-Richardson.

The TAG Match trophy, awarded to the overall winner, was awarded to:XXXXXX

Insert quote from OIC of the event, or winner, on how well everything went.

###