

Maj. Gen. Torrence Saxe

Commissioner & Adjutant General

www.DMVA.Alaska.Gov

Alaska National Guard

Department of Military and Veterans Affairs

Joint Base Elmendorf-Richardson, Alaska

STATE OF ALASKA

PRESS RELEASE

#MvaWeb

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

21-020

March 8, 2021

By Sgt. Michael Risinger

134th Public Affairs Detachment

Alaska Army National Guard Aviation Company Mobilization

JOINT BASE ELMENDORF-RICHARDSON, Alaska — Approximately 60 Alaska National Guard Soldiers are mobilizing from here to Fort Hood, Texas, March 7. Eight weeks of training will be conducted in preparation for a nine-month deployment in support of Combined Joint Task Force-Operation Inherent Resolve.

The UH-60 Black Hawk helicopter pilots, crew chiefs and support personnel from Alpha Company and the associated detachments of the 1-168th General Support Aviation Battalion will perform flying operations in the U.S. Central Command Area of Operations. At their deployed location, the Alaskan aviators will support the mission of Operation Inherent Resolve, operating in conjunction with partner forces to defeat ISIS and increase regional stability, which has been ongoing since 2014.

Training at Fort Hood will include a combination of pre-mobilization tasks, UH-60 aerial gunnery and flight training, and a maintenance and brigade level validation exercise.

Soldiers will face hardship that goes above and beyond a regular deployment.

"Together we face the challenges of COVID and an ever-changing training environment for an equally dynamic deployment environment," said Capt. Melissa Eury, A Company commander.

Upon arrival to Fort Hood, Soldiers will be reunited with four UH-60 Black Hawk helicopters which were delivered ahead of the personnel. Additionally, the unit is bringing aviation support equipment and parts, and heavy expanded mobility tactical trucks used for fueling.

"The Soldiers of Alpha Company have completed all of the pre-mobilization training in preparation of their onward movement," said Lt. Col. Todd Miller, 207th Aviation commander, "they have made sacrifices but have remained dedicated to being fully prepared for this mission."

###

Photos and video

1. DVIDS links include selected full-resolution photos, videos and full news story. (Accessible from military computers.)

<https://www.dvidshub.net/news/390876/alaska-army-national-guard-aviation-company-mobilization>

PHOTO

<https://www.dvidshub.net/image/6518054/alaska-national-guard-prepares-mobilization-fort-hood>

<https://www.dvidshub.net/image/6547674/alaska-army-national-guard-aviation-company-mobilization>

VIDEOS

Casing Ceremony for 1st Battalion 168th Aviation, Alaska Army National Guard

<https://www.dvidshub.net/video/783414/casing-ceremony-1st-battalion-168th-aviation-alaska-army-national-guard>

168th Aviation, Alaska Army National Guard

<https://www.dvidshub.net/video/783420/168th-aviation-alaska-army-national-guard>

Alaska Army National Guard pre-mobility training operations B-roll

<https://www.dvidshub.net/video/783427/alaska-army-national-guard-pre-mobility-training-operations-b-roll>

Alaska Army National Guard Soldiers with Alpha Company and the associated detachments of the 1-168th General Support Aviation Battalion get ready at the Joint Mobility Center on Joint Base Elmendorf-Richardson to depart for a nine-month long deployment to the Middle East, March 7, 2021. The Soldiers departed late at night on Sunday and will spend approximately a few months mobilizing in Ft. Hood, Texas, before they reach their final destination. (U.S. Army National Guard photo by Spc. Grace Nechanicky)